

— Perhaps it may have been so directed — that a young lady — a very old friend — is staying here, who has been much in Cambridge & knows it well. She thinks very highly of Christi College — as an excellent place for work — under a very valuable man (D. ~~But~~ Cartmell) as Master — and with admirable tutors. It stands 3^d. in rank $\frac{1}{2}$ Trinity of course coming first, & St. John's 2^d. $\frac{1}{2}$ & would be less expensive than those Colleges. — Caius is the college to be avoided — French Cookery being the predominant element there — in which I presume you do not take any particular interest.

What a blessing it is, that we may cast all our care upon One who careth for us! How far more comforting than any assurance derived from human affection or friendship! No doubt you have already your own work ready ~~point~~ marked out for you — and you have no reason to distrust the wisdom which has fixed the road — in seeking assistance as to the choice of the way —

I have expressed this very badly — but you will be able to interpret it, & forgive it too when I tell
