My dear Mr. Arthur,

179

My lawyer (Mr. May) has just sent me in a bill for making a will which I must own was a troublesome affair. He says if it himself he is asked of the amount (^{nearly} £22. ~~10~~) & is quite ready to make any statement I may suggest - I don't know what to do - shall I enclose him £20 & make no specific statement - or could I fairly object to any of the enclosed which are the principal items? -

I know you'll forgive my asking you - The will was long & required much precaution & I was quite satisfied that he should take counsel's opinion as to a doubtful point & hope for a Decipher will. - Thank you I make excellent progress. -
