

Experiments should not be tried on the telescopic image. If that can be done, I have no doubt of getting out a clear result one way or other.

Acton Scott, 8 Apr. / 75.

~~114~~
115

My dearest Arthur,

It was not till yesterday, when I went to the Visitation at Hereford ^{and back} from this place, that I became the fortunate possessor of the very pretty and useful present you have so kindly sent me. Pray accept my best thanks for it it will come into immediate ~~of~~ use, and you may well suppose, not without constant recollection of the kindness of the giver. —

As to the "lumière cendrée" — you have evidently got ~~two~~ of "quelque chose à remarquer" — and I will be sure to bear it in mind when I have a chance — though I fear my near-sightedness will be much against accuracy. —

Mr. With has had a great success with my mirror, and begs me not to part with it to anybody under £25. It is now up to the latest & finest mark.