

Serene Highness The Man in the Moon, about a 12 inch mirror I should be inclined to attend - especially as I long ago have for years held the office of his Inspector of Telescopes. By the way, do you know who is the woman in the Moon? I fancy Birk can tell you.

Our united best love

Yours very affectly

If you ever are kept waiting O^h 10th O^s in our Library, ask Westley if we have Jamieson's Celestial Atlas - If he on any other jolly good fellow's 2^d edⁿ that, improved, he w^d. do a capital thing. I meant to shew it you - And forgot. -

My dearest Arthur

I wish a line to thank you most especially for both your kind gifts - which are I assure you fully appreciated. - We have missed you very much. - The funeral, & the mourners - who did not go early, took up pretty well all the rest of that day.

You have not told us about your cold on your lip - How naughty - when you know how much we wished to hear. -

I find I bungled my question about Gavelkind - which you were so kind as to answer so fully as far as my enquiry went. But I have since come across the letter of the person who asked me, and I find he wants to know When was the
