

I am to tell you that the Bill is quite correct - with many thanks for your kind trouble. Perhaps before you leave Town - and as late as convenient - you will do us the favour of calling at Mrs. Weyatts, where there may be something to bring for us.

I have enough to write in other ways to make me brief to you - so you may guess - so with united kindest love and thanks from both, I am,

My dearest Arthur,
your most affectionate & friend

J. W. Webb

On looking at your letter again I see I have not quite caught your meaning - you speak of your mother's visit as occupying "a fortnight at the end of this month." I don't quite know whether this means the last fortnight of the month - or a fortnight beginning towards the end of it. My wife says therefore I had better be more explicit, and remind you that the day is the 29th (Monday) and she says that you will come here not later if possible than the 24th as your help will be of the greatest importance. - We have a sale of books & my wife's pictures. Can you suggest anything that would be likely to sell well and
